

Lovingly hand crafted house name & address plaques

Australians have always had a strong cultural connection with the land and the houses they occupy. Naming a home continues this trend and creates a unique bond between the owners and their home. Prestige, individualism and humour can be conveyed in a house name, which truly reflects the uniqueness of the owners. An address plaque is a practical and convenient addition to any home.

Custom Orders

Talkingstones has a passion to create truly unique and everlasting objects that our customers love.

This approach has allowed us to work on projects for a wide range of companies and household brands across many industry sectors. These include construction companies, property developers, architectural consultants, landscape and interior designers, councils, schools, and private individuals.

With an unmatched breadth of engraving processes and access to range of materials all work is done locally which means the fastest production time.

So if you have something unique or out of the ordinary you will find talkingstones have the experience and passion to bring your concept to reality.
